BRIFLETS.

—Mikmids Carnival to-night.

—Bat oysters to-night at the Guards Armory.

—Visit the Mikmids and see their novel uniforms.

—Nelson Bros. nearly lost a valuable horse to-day by paralysis.

—The weather clock evidently has no sympathy for house cleaners.

—Fun for all is promised at the Mikmids Carnival. Tickets are only ten cents.

—Mr. Albert Gramke, of the second ward, had a valuable cow killed by lightning last evening.

—Mrs. J. B. Day and Miss Hattie Ben, adict will help entertain the visitors at the Mikmids' carnival to-night.

—No new accidents on Milwaukee street have been reported for the past three hours. What does it mean?

—From what could be seen this afternoon the interior of the Guards' armory to-night will be a decided surprise.

—The Green Bay passenger train on the Northwestern road bound north, and due here at 1:20 p. m., was an hour late this afternoon.

—A reception will be given this evening at Mr. Fred. Dickerman and wife at the home of Mr. Dickerman's mother in the first ward.

—Mr. Manley J. Hemmens, for some time messenger boy with the Western Union Telegraph Co., succeeds Frank Cox in the central office of the telephone exchange.

—The funeral of Mrs. Sarah E. Constance was held this afternoon. At the close of the service the remains were taken to Oak Hill cemetery for interment.

—People's Lodge No. 450, Independent Order of Good Templars, assemble in regular weekly session this evening—lodge room in the court street M. E. church block.

—Mrs. N. Dearborn and her daughter, Mrs. Charles Cleveland and Miss Jessie Dearborn, entertained a number of ladies at their home in the fourth ward, this afternoon.

—Partly finished houses are to be seen on almost every street in the city. In the second ward there are five houses rapidly nearing completion within a radius of one block.

—Mrs. J. W. Sale gave a reception this afternoon at her home in the first ward. The guests included many of the prominent society ladies of the city and were very pleasantly entertained.

—Just now Mrs. William Sadler's show windows are something that the fair sex can hardly resist. The display of the millinery is unusually large and attractive. Mrs. Sadler's work evidently meets with thorough appreciation.

—To-day most of the water works men were laying pipe on Jackson street between the railroad crossing and Milwaukee street. One gang, however, was at work on West Third street and another on the Milwaukee street service pipes.

—Bowles & Hadden are preparing to build a two-story barn that will cost about four thousand dollars. The barn will be one hundred and thirty-two feet long, and fifty feet wide, and will be built of Milwaukee brick. Nothing will be done on it, however, until next season.

—Mr. Thomas Mahon has purchased the restaurant business of Mr. John Tuckwood, West Milwaukee street, and takes possession at once. Mr. Mahon has long been a resident of Janesville, connected with the Janesville Machine Co., and his many friends will wish him success in his new business.

—The Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railway will sell excursion tickets to Milwaukee on Thursday, October 6th, and to Madison on Friday, October 7th, 8th and 9th, good to return on the following day, for one and one third fare. The excursion train from Madison to Janesville will leave at 7 o'clock in the evening of the 7th.

—The heavy rain storm of last evening did not prevent a goodly number of young ladies and gentlemen from attending the inaugural party given by the Young Men's Quadrille club at the Raffles armory. The social was kept up until one o'clock this morning. Smith & Corlies orchestra furnishing the music for the merry dancers. These pleasant parties will be given once in two weeks during the winter season.

—Funeral services over the remains of Mrs. Mary J. Peckham were held this afternoon. The services were at the family residence on South Academy street, and were conducted by the Rev. Thomas Walker. Mr. Walker in his remarks touched especially on the many christian virtues of the deceased, and upon the broad spirit of love shown throughout her life. The services were largely attended.

—Among the numerous commendable acts of the Milwaukee exposition management, this season, is that of engaging hands from different cities of Wisconsin, instead of making exclusive use of Milwaukee hands. The people of the interior have always looked upon the exposition as a state institution, and by their course in the present instance the managers give assurance of the fact that they do not wish it to be considered otherwise.

—Married, at the bride's home, in Janesville, Thursday evening Sept. 28th, by Rev. W. F. Brown, Mr. Edmund K. Fitch and Miss Genevieve E. Wood, daughter of Edwin E. and Mary J. Wood. About twenty-five relatives of both parties were present and made the occasion a delightful family gathering. After a week's absence the newly married pair expect to make their home in this city. May it be indeed a happy home crowned with all the blessings of true home life.

—The funeral of the late Timothy McCue, of the town of Harmony, took place at nine o'clock this morning, a very large number of the family friends assembling at the house about a mile east of the city limits on Milwaukee avenue, following the remains to St. Patrick's church, where the funeral services were held. There were one hundred and eleven vehicles of all descriptions in the procession from the house to the church forming a line of closely crowded vehicles reaching a distance of over a mile. At reaching a distance of over a mile, the church this line was reinforced by a large number who were unable to go to the house, and from the church to the Catholic cemetery, the procession was undoubtedly the largest ever seen in this city. Rev. Father McGinnis conducted the services at St. Patrick's church, the church being filled to overflowing with the friends of the family. The services were very impressive. Deceased was widely known, and possessed many friends, who turned out on this sad occasion to pay their last respects to the memory of a kind-hearted and honest man. The pall bearers were: Messrs. James Rooney, M. Roach, B. Birmingham, George Callen, John Birmingham, M. Birmingham.

FOR THE MILITARY.

The Great International Military Encampment at Chicago, now just commencing, has more strikingly novel features than any affair in America. Briefly to note these, the foreign soldiery from Sweden, Denmark and Norway make it strictly international; the U. S. Navy is represented by the warship "Michigan," with sailors, marines, etc., the Army by one Light Battery, one Troop of Cavalry and four Regiments of Infantry, all commanded by Col. Black, 23d Infantry, assigned by General Sheridan as Commandant of the camp.

National Guard competitions, dress parades, reviews, etc., enlist the attention of troops from every state in the Union; and there will be three grand sham battles on the 5th, 8th and 11th of October.

Two great parks (Chicago Park Grounds and Central Driving Park immediately adjoining) are occupied by the camp and the drill grounds; these latter surrounded by grand stands accommodating immense numbers, under and around which are restaurants and every conceivable supply for public wants.

The grandest preparations for fire works ever made in the west have been arranged personal attention of the famous Gen. of J. S. Paia & Sons, London, England. Niagara Falls (300 feet long and 60 feet high) and the burning of Chicago by "Mrs. O'Leary's cow," making two grandly lurid spectacles.

October 31 to 12th will be occupied by military displays; from 12th to 20th by most extensive rifle practice for teams and individuals. The prizes in all departments are far the largest and most liberal ever offered, aggregating $42,000.

The roads everywhere have been very liberal, making a rate of one cent per mile to soldiers in uniform, and very generous reductions on round trip excursion rates for general travel.

DELOITTE COLLEGE NOTES.

—The Eclipse Van Engine Co. have offered a prize of $30 for the best essay on the subject "What is a Motor Power?" or "The Wind-Mill in History." The essay receiving the prize is to be printed, and used by them as an advertisement. Rather a good scheme all around.

The same thing was done last year by the Thompson Plot Co.

—Two Chicago gentlemen have furnished money to supply the gymnasium with individual lockers and before long will be ready for the bell team's winter training. The team will keep up systematic indoor work until well on in the spring.

—The State University, with its two or more courses, boasts of 200 new students while Deloitte, with but two straight courses, has 125. A pretty good showing.

—The Athletics have decided that "Cleveland's policy does not warrant him the election in 1888," while the Deloitte claim that "The government should undertake the control of the telegraph system."

—One of the classes in zoology started the other members as well as the tutor the other day by declaring "all animals are not of the same shape, neither are all animals of the same size." The statement stands verified.

—Instructive and elevating table talk at "The Club":

"Touch the bread."

"Pass the oil."

"Juggle the sweetness this way."

"Tangle the oymal piece."

"This piece of meat came from between the horns."

"What? Pies? (Gosh all fish-hooks!)"

PERSONAL.

—Mrs. N. Fredricks is visiting friends in Clinton.

—Frank L. Hayden is in the city arranging to remove his family to Council Bluffs.

—Miss Lizzie Wack, who has been visiting friends in this city, has returned to her home in Oakbrook.

—Mr. Will A. Zinsinger, who has been in St. Paul for a couple of years, arrived home last night, and is heartily welcomed by his many friends.

THE WEATHER.

At seven o'clock this morning the thermometer indicated 35 degrees above zero. Cloudy, with east wind. At one o'clock p. m. the register was 68 degrees above zero. Cloudy with northwest wind. For the corresponding hours one year ago the register was 45 and 49 degrees above zero.

Free Lecture.

Saturday afternoon, October 1, at two o'clock, in Lippin's hall, by F. O. Robinson, the Indian medical wonder. Robinson's only, where all women that are anxious to learn something that will be a benefit to them are cordially invited to attend.

Extension to Madison.

In conformity with the resolution adopted at the council chamber Wednesday evening, we hereby extend a cordial invitation to all citizens to join in the excursion to Madison on October 7th, to meet President and Mrs. Cleveland. Persons desiring to go, are requested to leave their names with Mr. Will Skelly at King's bookstore; J. P. Baker, Franz Shorer, Robert McLean, or any member of the committee on or before Tuesday next. The time of the departure will be announced later.

WANTED IN MILWAUKEE.

The Guards and Rifles Invited to Help Receive President Cleveland.

Personal Letters Received by the Captains of Both Commands.

Milwaukee wants the Janesville militia to come to her aid once again.

But this time the call is for a very different purpose from what it was in '86. President Cleveland's visit to the city, and not the strike of a band of Polacks is the occasion for which the "Gould soldier boys" are wanted.

The president is to be in Milwaukee, Thursday, October 6th and a notable parade has been arranged. Efforts are being made to have the First regiment turn out in a body. The invitations received by Captains Newman and Koehn are as follows:

Headquarters of the Committee on Arrangements for the Reception of the President, September 28, 1887.

Sir:—I have the honor to extend to you and through you, to the members of your company a cordial invitation to participate in the parade incident to the reception of the president in this city, Oct. 6th, 1887. Please signify your early acceptance in writing at the above address, so that your position in column may be properly assigned. I have the honor to be very respectfully,

Your obedient servant,

OTAVIUS KING, Grand Marshal.

Neither company has yet taken action on Col. King's invitation. The Rifles will probably announce their decision Monday night. As for the Guards, their action will probably depend on the facilities offered for transportation. The company will hold Chicago Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday and can return via Milwaukee Thursday with very little trouble.

In case Janesville companies decide to accept, accommodations will be provided for them in the Milwaukee armory. Captain Newman has been promised the building of the Light House Squadron, while Captain Koehn has received a similar offer from the Sheridan Guards.

A FEW NOTES ON PUBLICATIONS OF THE MONTH.

Charles Egbert Craddock, in the October Wide Awake, concludes the powerful serial of "Kedron Bluff," Mrs. Craddock's Wabash River serial, "The Secret of Roseville," takes "Mister, and the Moon-Diggers too, through strange adventures; Howling Wolf," the "Lost Champion's Indian serial," goes campaigning with Geromero; young Yagrits, in "A Young Prince of Commerce," forms a railroad syndicate; while Margaret Sirney's Concord paper describes and illustrates the Concord Library with its famous treasures, Mrs. French's Studio where the statue of the "Mimic Man" was modeled, and the site of "Tuesdays' barn at Walden Pond.

The building of the Washington National Monument, the latest structure ever raised by man, is described in detail by Oscar Foote in the American Magazine for October. Although authorized by Congress in 1793, the work was not actually begun until 1847 when a society was organized for that purpose.

The North American Review for October contains an essay on "Some Defects in Our Political and Social Institutions," from the pen of the Archbishop Cardinal of Baltimore.

Speaker Carlisle has an article in the Forum for October, setting forth the grounds upon which the democratic party base its expectation that it will be continued in power at Washington.

The significance of the dread sentence of excommunication in the Roman Catholic church is explained in the Forum for October, by the Rev. Professor Haigwin, whose acquaintance with the Canon Law gives him special fitness for the task.

The October Harper's is enshrined with a beautiful series of drawings from E. A. Abbey, C. S. Reinhart, A. B. Frost, Harry Fenn, W. H. Gibson, Howard Pyle, and J. M. Sargent, in an article upon him.

In the current number of Scribner's is the seventh and last installment of Theaker's letters which have so completely won the praise of the reading world. All the letters in this installment were written during Theaker's American visits, and contain amusing and always good-natured descriptions of the leading American cities in which he lectured.

PATTI ROSA AS "BOB."

Monday evening Janesville theatre-goers will have the opportunity of seeing an old favorite, Patti Rosa, in Lotta's popular comedy, "Bob." Of a recent performance the Chicago Herald says:

Patti Rosa, a sourette, or more properly a comedienne, whose talent is so widely recognized that her versatility is played in the fact that at the Pacific Theatre to the utmost capacity of the house.

The title role of the piece affords a fine opportunity for such a housewife as Patti Rosa, who dances and sings and sings her way through the various acts in an irresistible manner. It is understood that this little lady has two plays in preparation, one of which, at least, may prove exactly the thing she needs to carry her on toward fame and fortune. One of these plays will be produced at the Holley's Theatre in October and the other in New York later in the season, and in justice to a sourette who rides at a hand gallop through all the traditions solely on account of her ability to act, while her comedienne in general, not to be so happy that one play or the other will be a blessing success. Not only can Patti Rosa act on her own account, but, strange to relate, her entire company is composed of stars.

Cheap Rates to Denver and Return.

The Chicago & Northwestern Railway Co. will sell excursion tickets to Denver and return at one fare for the round trip. Tickets will be sold September 13th to 18th, inclusive, and as they will be good returning until October 31st, an excellent opportunity is presented to the people of visiting Colorado. Tickets are sold to Old Folios, their friends and the general public. For tickets, information and sleeping car accommodations, apply to agents of the Chicago & Northwestern Railway Co.

GIANT MINING ENTERPRISE.

Fourteen miles of a River Turned Out of its Bed for Mining Purposes.

Without doubt one of the greatest mining achievements of modern engineering is the construction of the Big Bend Tunnel on the Feather river, situated in Butte county, California. Feather river is formed by the North Middle and South Forks, which rise in the Sierra Nevada Mountains in Plumas county, run southwestward and unite in Butte county to form the main Feather.

The river, including the forks, is 250 miles long, and enters Sacramento river at Vernon in Sutter county, about 20 miles above the city of Sacramento.

It is well known, among gold miners, that the richest and most productive gold mines of California have been the beds of rivers, and the "Feather" stands pre-eminent as to richness wherever it has been possible to work it. In fact, old miners have known it for years under the name of "The Golden Feather."

Prof. Horace C. Burdard, late director of the United States mint, in speaking of the gold-producing river beds of California, says: "They are the natural sluices of thousands of square miles of surface ground, the wash from which has been distributed on the beds, bars, and benches, where by a natural process of concentration, the gold was redeposited in such manner that it was easily accessible to the early miners." The bars, which at low water are dry, are exposed to the operation of the miners, and from many places in the bed of the river—where it was possible to turn the river out of its channel by means of dams and canals, or flumes—the water was forced to the sluicing of the precious metal from the sand and gravel in which it rested. The Big Bend of Feather river, however, whose gravel deposits have been estimated in value from $100,000,000 to $150,000,000, has been hitherto regarded as too rich to rob it of its treasure. This vast amount of wealth has been guarded and preserved for ages by the minimum constant flow of one hundred thousand miners' inches of water rushing through a narrow canon of from 1,500 to 2,000 feet deep, which rendered it impossible to wing-dam or flume. Yet, while nature has thus seemingly placed impenetrable barriers against man's encroachments, she has provided at one point at least, a way whereby these obstacles could be overcome through the intervention of modern engineering skill.

There is a little stream running through a branch of the Feather into the main Feather, several feet lower than the bed of the main Feather, at the point where Big Bend is. A tunnel connected with the main river at a point about 12 miles distant through a spur of Big Bend, drained a distance of 12,000 feet, or nearly two and one-third miles in length out to the mountain side of Feather river, at the upper end of which the tunnel entered the upper end of the tunnel, the river a dam was constructed which is so far above the water through the tunnel into the West Branch, and the water from the upper end of the tunnel, about fourteen miles of the river bed exposed to sight during the season of low water, which is from seven to nine months in the year.

This stupendous undertaking required the work of one hundred men, working night and day, for about five years, and has just recently been completed. At the head of the tunnel six gates of iron and steel, 4 1/2 by 8 feet, will let the water in or keep it out, and the river will run along in its old bed, to be turned out of its old course and through the tunnel at low water.

The past year, from these parts of the Feather accessible to mining operations, is sufficient that the most sanguine anticipations of the projectors of this grand enterprise will be fully realized. The famous old mine, the Big Bend, has yielded $500,000 in forty-two working days, from 3,500 linear feet of half-worked river bed. In fact, the river, channel, both above and below the Bend, has proven itself immensely profitable to the projectors, and the largest stockholder therein, is Dr. R. V. Pierce, who is, perhaps, of all others, most entitled to credit for the successful termination of this great undertaking. Being fully satisfied with the feasibility of the plan from its inception, he has with an unflinching hand supplied the funds for the prosecution of this enormously expensive work, and his confidence and liberality will soon meet its reward.

The doctor has been, and now is, connected with very many other important matters. In the fall of 1877, he was elected to seat in the New York state senate, and in 1878 he was placed in nomination for congress, and was elected by a decisive majority.

He is now president of the Buffalo Loan, Trust and Safe Deposit Company, one of the foremost banking institutions in the city of Buffalo. But he is perhaps best known as president of the "World's Dispensary Medical Association and Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute." This institution is situated on Main and Washington streets, Buffalo, New York, having a frontage on both streets. The design of the foralids Hotel is to furnish a home to those desiring private treatment of the most skilled class, especially to the suffering from chronic and surgical diseases. It is not a hospital, but a pleasant, remedial home, furnished with every comfort, and the most approved sanitary, medical and surgical appliances, which study, experience, and the most liberal expenditure of money can produce. There are sixteen skilled physicians and surgeons constantly at the hotel, and a corps of efficient and trained nurses. The doctor is also the inventor of several well-known remedies, which are commended at the World's Dispensary. The efficacy of these medicines is undoubtedly what led to the idea and ultimate establishment of the Invalids' Hotel. Very many who were using these remedies at Dr. Pierce's were urged to send applications for personal treatment, and these appeals becoming so numerous, the doctor concluded to erect his Invalids' Hotel. The Big Bend Tunnel Company is fortunate in having so progressive a man as Dr. Pierce as their president.

The money expended in the construction of the tunnel does not represent all the capital involved. More than a hundred millions of dollars have been expended in the dredging of the river bed, and the building of the river, and what was an unbroken wilderness, around the vicinity of the tunnel, when the company commenced operations, is now a thriving village with good dwelling houses, a general store, a hotel, and a school-house. A post-office has also been established, and a telephone line built to Oroville, sixteen miles distant.

A HUGE FISH STORY.

One of Immense Size Related by United States Senator Spooner.

He Knocks All Other Fish Stories Out of Time—What He Saw Returning from Europe.

Senator Spooner is not only one of the best orators in the west, but he has long enjoyed the reputation of being the best story teller, turning the point on politics, in the state. A fish story is now credited to him, which is immense. The senator was in St. Paul the other day, and the Globe man took down the following: "The Senator is a clever talker, and while he would not have much of importance to say of politics yesterday, he lectured pleasantly across the ocean, and told a shark story that will bear repeating. Three weeks ago the senator boarded a Cunard steamer in Liverpool, bound for New York. The first three days out were unmarked by any unusual incident. On the morning of the fourth day a sailor called the attention of the captain to a large shark that was swimming leisurely along in the wake of the steamer, evidently enjoying the commotion in the water stirred up by the busy screw. Some of the superstitious passengers who had not forgotten the stories they had read in their youth of how sharks never followed a vessel unless some one aboard was soon to be assigned to its hungry jaws, became frightened and begged the officers of the boat to kill the shark by shooting it possible. An attempt was made to do this, but owing to the poor aim of the marksmen or the toughness of the shark's hide, the bullets had no visible effect on the fish. An attempt was made to catch him by baiting leasy hooks with pork, attaching them to heavy ropes, and throwing them in the direction of the shark, but the fish seemed to relish this, for he would turn on his back, gobble up the pork and biting off the rope, would eat and swallow the pork and hooks with as much gusto as an epicure would swallow a half dozen Sadio rockysters, served on the half shell. At last the captain ordered the ship's blacksmith to make a hook of immense size with four barbed points like a grappling iron, and fastening this to an iron hawser it was baited with fresh meat and tossed overboard. The shark darted toward it and, with a grip, swallowed the meat, but was unable to sever the iron hawser with his teeth as he had done the rope. The hook fastened itself in his stomach, and hitting the chain to a winchless, the monster was drawn up and landed on the ship's deck, where he was dispatched with axes and spears. The shark weighed 1,700 pounds and measured two feet from the tip of his nose to the end of his tail. "Now comes the wonderful part of my story," said the senator, settling himself back in the chair and crossing his legs, "we cut the shark open to see what effect the hook had had on his department of the interior. When we cut open the stomach we found a water pail, a child's rocking horse, a pair of fisherman's boots, three empty beer bottles, a copy of the London Times, the well preserved seal of a pair of trousers and a pair of gloves, on which was painted the following sign:

No Smoking Allowed.

"Where the shark had gathered this collection the passengers were unable to conjecture, but it had probably gathered them out of some wreck. I've got one of the shark's teeth at home, and I am going to have carved out of it a bust of Matt Carpenter."
